Under the Tree

By John Rottinghaus

Under the tree I sit, I feel that anything is possible, I am a swan in water, I am a deer, galloping in tall grass, I am a sunset that is perfectly set, I am an eagle, flying high in the sky,

Under the tree I look, I realize, then I see, the swan, swimming so gracefully in the clear, blue water, the deer galloping smoothly in the tall green grass. I see the most beautiful sunset in the world, I see the eagle flying without a care in the world,

Under the tree I close my eyes, I feel something in my heart, Itø not kindness or joy, Itø much more than that. It is love.
